

World Congress 2012

World Federation of Colleges and Polytechnics

Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada
May 26-29, 2012

It's all about engagement and dialogue.

The 2012 World Congress will engage participants in dialogue, debate and discussion about the ties between applied education and job creation, economic growth and vibrant rural and urban communities.

Educators, administrators, students and policy makers will gather in Halifax, Canada, May 26-29, 2012 to explore best practices and innovation in technical and vocational education and training (TVET) or to use the Canadian phrase, Advanced Skills for Employment (ASE).

Under the overarching theme of Driving the Global Economy, delegates from around the globe will share insights and best practices in leadership and transformation, access and relevance, pedagogy for a new generation of learners, quality assurance and standards across borders, and inclusion of indigenous and marginalized peoples.

This working congress will build upon the momentum of previous WFCP congresses to bring the World Federation to a new level of global cooperation and exchange.

Facilitated networking sessions are scheduled from day one. Interactive sessions and mini-plenaries will encourage delegates to tell stories worth sharing and participate in dialogues worth having.

Exhibitors are invited to register for the congress' global marketplace.

The International Executive Leadership Institute will be held prior to the Congress for emerging leaders of colleges and polytechnics. Led by experienced college presidents, with support from ACCC's professional development staff and international partners, the institute will offer an opportunity for prospective college presidents to explore and develop their potential as senior institutional leaders.
