

Assessing Learning

An important conference for the tertiary sector

November 29, 30 and December 1, 2017

Otago Polytechnic Campus, Dunedin, New Zealand

Conference Focus

This conference will be a chance for participants to engage with the latest in assessment thinking and practices as well as being reminded of long standing challenges concerning assessment validity and integrity. Also, rapid changes in technology are offering new opportunities as well as further challenges as is the trend towards more learning taking place outside of classrooms.

There will be a strong focus on sharing practice in order to improve practice and to that end the conference will be structured around interactive workshop sessions and practice presentations will be catered for.

Who should attend?

The conference will be relevant to all parts of the tertiary sector including universities, ITPs, ITOs PTEs and Wānanga.

Conference themes:

- Innovations and trends in assessment
- The student voice
- Assessment for learning
- Assessment quality and integrity
- Assessing experiential learning
- Maturanga Māori in assessment practice
